

Adventures at Greenland

“Quickly” shouted Steven as he scrambled over the pile of stinky dirt. Quietly, Razor the jaguar followed. The two friends stopped steadily at the whirlpool in search of crystals, quartz and rocks. “Hey come here” screamed Steven to Razor. In the whirlpool, there was a small black box wrapped metal. The friends unscrewed the screws and inside was a coin made in 1719. It was chipped off.

Suddenly, Vincent the fearsome tiger pounced on Steven, his armoured knight was shouting oaths. “Give me the coin” shouted Vincent fiercely but the two refused. They scrambled over the log. They trotted and tripped and almost did a bellyflop. “Quick lets hide in here.” It was scary and dark and could hear the wind blowing. Both felt their way and hid behind the cardboard box. All at once, Vincent and the knight stood by the box. But the knight could see them.

It padded closer and closer. They could see its armour. Suddenly, they heard a shout "here knight" shouted the tiger. Steven and razor held their breath until the sinister enemies had gone away. Even though the land was empty they ran as fast as they could. First of all mum didn't believe them until razor showed her the old coin. Mom called the police the green house up the road had been stolen. They had no clue.....