The Thief by Aiden Tan

He crept forward quietly
Jumping the fence stealthily
The lights flickered off
Unluckily, the thief started to cough

The barn owl began hooting
Then the police began tooting
As the thief was fleeing lightning fast
He tripped over a canine's tail and needed a cast

When the thief began to flee
The police's face glimmered with glee
A light flickered on, then the neighbourhood began arguing
The police ran forward and started 'imprisoning'

Ever since that night, the police begin patrol
Whenever the barn owl will go
When the lights are flickered
The thief's ghost is triggered
